

Plant Availability List – January 7, 2016

I will be initiating major upgrades to the web site during winter of 2015. I Have about finished restocking plants from the spring sales. I will be adding utilities later to the nursery as well as making repairs.

Propagation from cuttings usually takes 2 weeks to root. Colored dots indicate forecasted availability. Newly struck cuttings are marked by ●. Newly potted cuttings are marked with a blue dot ● and will be ready in 10 - 21 days, depending on variety and temperatures.

Recently re-acquired and new stock plants are marked by a green dot ●. Replacement stock plants I need to find a source of are marked by a magenta dot ●. Those items without any dot are mostly plants that I have as established stock plants or am not currently offering. More replacements of lost stock plants will be coming.

I restrict distribution of plants labeled PP and especially PPAF to comply with royalty agreements. This depends on the source of my propagation stock. I finally have bought a modest number of plugs of some of the more popular patented selections, like Amistad, Mystic Spires, and the Heatwave and Suncrest Dancer series. And of course, Wendy's Wish and the new Ember's Wish and Love and Wishes. This trial year to determine interest in these patented plants has worked out well, and pretty much as expected. Shell Dancer has shown to handle the winter of 2014 - 2015 in western Massachusetts well. What other surprises are there?

A number of old plants in stock have been repotted. Production of cuttings continues and new seed for 2015 is up and about to be potted up. I am growing some new species from last year as stock plants, including one seedling of Salvia leucocephala, which I have in abundance now, along with the purplish fuchsia Salvia guaranitica Jean's Jewel.

HCG - High Country Gardens

** - All of my Salvia cuatrecasana seedlings have proven to be hybrids, as far as I can tell. I will propagate the showier ones for trialling.

Assistance in locating new stock plants would be appreciated These are part of the collection that I have lost and can replace fairly easily, or are about to be propagated. More of these will be re-acquired and will be back in stock in spring of 2015, either from seed or from new stock plants.

More items will be added later in the season, from seed sources and from new material obtained in trade. Additionally, certain species like Prostantheras, Westringias, S. regla and S. sessei require warmer conditions to root cuttings.

I am modifying my potting soil mix to include both Bio-Comp (contains composted peanut hulls) and PermaTil (mostly for tuberous plants that need drainage and air).. I may be able to do proportional fertilization, and am now using Nutricotr slow released fertilizer, to avoid shattering of pellets during summer..

My prices are now $5.00 each for 2.5 inch pots, $6.00 each for 3 inch pots, and $7.50 each for 3.5 inch pots. This was the first increase in ten years, and reflects increased costs for greenhouse supplies and operation, which are a reflection of increased costs for fuel and petroleum-based supplies, and for the rent of the new nursery site and utility charges. I previously had the nursery at my home, and at a friends residence for a nominal fee.

Shipping cost will be based on previous orders of about the same size to the same area and shipped by the same method. (USPS Priority mail vs. either 2-day or 3-day air UPS or Fed Ex). For USPS Priority, this is around 20 - 25% of the cost of the order to most points east of the Mississippi. The minimum USPS charge is $8.00 (usually 2-3 plants for around 100 miles from central North Carolina). Shipping charges will change according to changes in USPS and UPS charges and petrol prices..

I hope to begin redesigning the new site starting summer 2015. Initially, I will be working on content, then I will later reformat the site to make it more accessible. I will be adding many more Salvias to the gallery, and more features, such as how to construct a small collector's nursery with a greenhouse and cold frame at minimal costs
